IS FOR MEN WHO ARE SATISFIED
WITH NOTHING LESS THAN THE BEST.

It is designed, cut, tailored and trimmed with this one end in view—to disarm the criticism of the most critical. It is as natural as gravitation that the better class of buyers in any community should turn to the merchant who can show them such clothing as this, which has all the advantages of the expensive made-to-measure kind with none of the drawbacks.

Crawford Shoes for Men.

Mr. and Mrs. Crawford have moved from Jefferson to a saw mill, when the "Windy" railroad crosses the Sabine river. They were Jeffersonians only for a short time, but sufficiently long to enable us to say that they are excellent people. Mrs. Crawford is a fine neighbor, an earnest worker in the W. C. T. U. and the church. We wish them well, and can heartily commend them to the people with whom their lots are cast. Jefferson will miss them.

A Flying Turtle Fell.

To the JIMP—During a rain and windstorm this evening, and while watching the hail stones as they fell very thick, a mud turtle also fell in about three feet of my doorsteps, which was a surprise to myself and family. The turtle weighed one pound. H. J. WHATLEY.

Isis Continues.

After God had created man in his own image, "Male and female created He them," and had finished all the host of them. He placed a garden eastward in Eden and there was no one to dress and keep it. So out of the dust of the earth He formed Adam who needed help to perform the work of this beautiful garden. To get this help the Lord God took from the side of Adam a rib which he formed into a woman for a helpmeet.

Sacred history does not inform us where He placed the first man and woman that he made previous to the creation of Adam and Eve. But we infer that they were the gentiles, or the genteel people who had nothing to do but to enjoy the magnificent surroundings or to feast on the delicately luscious fruits in the garden of Eden, and to sit beneath the shady groves overshadowed by trailing vines of the cloth of gold roses, forming lovely grottoes with cooling rills of limpid water trickling down the sides of this enchanted retreat. I infer that fountains of translucent pearly streams were gushing forth from whitest marble standpipes throwing the spray up in the air. Then falling back upon the grass and flowers that bedecked the surrounding scene. I infer that these doubly refined and intellectual people just from the plastic hand of God had no books but tales of love woven by their ancestors on the great world Jubiter, while this earth was under process or yet embryo. I infer that these people remained in the garden when Adam and Eve transgressed the law of obedience and was fired by the Cherubim who held the flaming sword. I infer that the garden of Eden is now the paradise or the first heaven above this earth. And that those pre-mentioned people are reveling in the glorious heaven of bliss far beyond. Where the rolling tide of time floats along the corridors of those bright orbs in the firmament of heaven, enjoying the delicious music drawn from golden harps and silver lutes by the saints. Adam and Eve might have gained the portals of another heaven were it not for the sins they indulged in. But instead they listened to the flatteries or temptations of another nation which brought them down a grade or two lower than when they first began life.

When one starts the wrong way they bring upon themselves swift destruction which was proven by Cain murdering his brother Abel. Were it not for sins that have been committed by the people of this earth we might have had sweet communion with the spirit world at any time. But God withdrew His face from the haunts of men for thousands of years when wickedness and sin abounded. Isis.

TOM WATSON'S MAGAZINE.

Vol. 2, No. 1, the July Number to be Illustrated and Greatly Improved.

As a token of appreciation of the liberal support given it by the public, Tom Watson's Magazine for July (commencing the second volume) came out June 26 with illustrations, cartoons, head and tail pieces, etc., 128 pages of good reading to take home with you.

Of course, size isn't the only Tom Watson's Magazine is proud of. Quality first, size afterward, is its rule of action. There are plenty of good magazines now being published—but none of them can take the place of Tom Watson's, because no other editorial writer in America can feel the public pulse and diagnose social and political ills as Tom Watson does. Not that there is any lack of good editorial writers—big, brainy men, who know how to write strong English—but there is only one Tom Watson; and he always commands attention and respect, even of those who combat his ideas most vigorously.

Tom Watson's is "a magazine with a purpose back of it," and the success it has attained, in the "waddling clothes" period of its existence, shows that the American people are intensely interested in Mr. Watson's purpose, regardless of party names or affiliation. That success has been greater than the most ardent friend of Mr. Watson and his magazine had hoped for. From the very first it has enjoyed a steady growth in subscriptions and news-stands sales. There has been no "boom," no mushroom growth to die suddenly, no skyrocket ascent to fall a broken stick. Tom Watson's Magazine has been a study of using professional subscription solicitors, but relies upon local agents and clubbing with the country newspapers. The subscribers thus secured are the kind that renew year after year and form an "Old Guard," invaluable alike to the publisher and his advertisers.

Mr. Watson was last year the People's Party candidate for president, and of course, his magazine editorially is an advocate of Populism—or Jeffersonian Democracy, as some prefer to call it. The magazine is especially strong in municipal ownership of street railways, electric light and gas works, etc., and national ownership of railroads, telegraphs, a parcels post, etc. But Tom Watson's Magazine is by no means all politics. About half its is devoted to serials, novelettes, short stories, poems, jokes, cartoons, illustrations and special articles by the world's best writers and artists; an Educational Department; news summary; "The Say Other Editors," etc.; $1 per year by mail; ten cents per copy at the news stands.

The JIMPLECUTE is not a supporter of Tom Watson's brand of politics, but it recognizes that the question of public ownership is one that cannot longer be ignored and that it must be settled before many years. To secure a satisfactory settlement the people must be educated to act intelligently upon it; and to secure such education every phase of the question must be discussed. "Public control" will undoubtedly be tested thoroughly first, and if it works satisfactorily the "public ownership" feature will be dropped. But if "control" should fail "ownership" will inevitably be the next step. Accordingly, to help in an educational way, the JIMPLECUTE has arranged a clubbing combination whereby our readers may renew for one year and secure Tom Watson's Magazine a $1.50. Hand or send this amount to this office. We have also arranged for free sample copies of the magazine to be sent to any person cutting out the coupon below and mailing it to Tom Watson's Magazine, No. 121 West 42d street, New York City.

Expects Bale to the Acre.

W. J. C. Wilkerson was in this morning with some cotton blooms which were found on his place near Rondo. These are first that have been brought to this season. Mr. Wilkerson says he has twelve acres of fine land planted in cotton and from half of it he expects to gather a bale to the acre, unless some disaster befalls the crop. He thinks crops in his neighborhood are in fair condition, though held back by rains.—Texarkanian.

Cotton manufacturers in the United States are enjoying a period of unprecedented activity. The demand in Great Britain is so great that the 635,000 looms running are unequal to the demand. The people of China and India are buying more largely than ever. The whole southern cotton milling field has taken on air of great prosperity.
